NARRATIVE SUMMARY

1. OVERVIEW

During August, the 3d Marine Division (-)(Rein) conducted four major operations and extensive reconnaissance in two separate recon zones. In the east, the 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mech), U.S.A., continued operation Iroquois Grove. During August the 4th Marine Regiment conducted two operations simultaneously - Operation Georgia Tar to the west of Vandegrift Combat Base and Operation Arlington Canyon north of Vandegrift Combat Base to the DMZ. The 3d Marine Regiment was involved in Operation Idaho Canyon, north of Elliott Combat Base and Cam Lo.

During August there was one significant change in the Idaho Canyon AO. On 14 August, the 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mech) took responsibility for a sector in the northeastern corner of the AO.

2. COMMAND RELATIONS

Command relations with supporting, adjacent and subordinate units and with higher headquarters remained the same during August as in July. Coordination between the 3d Marine Division (-)(Rein), the 101st Airborne Division (AM) and the 1st ARVN Division was maintained through an exchange of liaison personnel. MACV Advisory Group performed liaison functions between RVNAF and US Forces. All air, artillery and naval gunfire missions were coordinated in the 3d Marine Division FSCC and DASC.

4. OPERATIONS SUMMARY

GENERAL

The Third Marine Division conducted offensive operations throughout the month of August. Frequent displacement coupled with continuous and aggressive patrolling greatly restricted the enemy's offensive potential. Four operations already in progress continued during August.

Iroquois Grove, manned by the 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mech), continued in the eastern sector of the Third Marine Division AO. Friendly units denied the enemy access to the local population as well as its rice crop.

The 4th Marine Regiment retained its responsibility for two operations in the western portion of the Division AO. In Operation Arlington Canyon, discovery and destruction of enemy rocket sites remained the primary mission. Although contact was sporadic, a significant reduction in rocket attacks was noted.

The 4th Marines also carried out operation Georgia Tar during August. Numerous rocket attacks on fire support bases in the southern portion of the Division AO prompted search and clear operations to inhibit the NVA's offensive threat. Reduction of enemy infiltration from the eastern border of Laos was also a consideration. Intermittent contacts with small enemy forces occurred throughout the month.

The Third Marines continued their participation in Operation Idaho Canyon. Security for populated areas along Route #9 and interdiction of enemy infiltration routes near C-2 and A-4 were of vital concern. Significant contacts occurred as elements of the Third Marines cleared the area surrounding C-2. Later in the month the 1st and 3d Battalions swept west in search of enemy forces in the region north of Elliott Combat Base.

OPERATION IDAHO CANYON

Operation Idaho Canyon commenced on 16 July 1969 and continued throughout August. The original concept of the operation was the security of fixed positions and construction along Route #9, interdiction of enemy infiltration routes to the east and west of Con Thien and C-2. 1st Bn, 3d Marines conducted operations along Route #9 from the ~~Khe Gio Bridge~~ and provided security for FSB Fuller. They remained in this posture throughout August.

2d Bn, 3d Marines operated west of 1/3 and conducted road sweeps, night surveillance and continuous patrolling in the vicinity of FSB Mack and Elliott Combat Base. At 0415 on 10 August, 2 platoons of E/2/3 came under heavy ground attack by an estimated NVA Co vic XD 935627. The enemy employed mortars, RPG's and Chicom grenades. Women nurses were observed removing the enemy wounded. Echo's perimeter was threatened briefly, but the enemy's attempt to overrun was repelled. Echo suffered 18 KIA and 66 WIA(E), while 46 NVA were confirmed.

During mid-August 3/3 moved north and west from C-2 YD 1363, their previous mission having been assumed by elements of the 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mech). On 11 August at 0930 Kilo Company, YD 093658 sweeping west of C-2 surprised 2 NVA sapper platoons in the process of establishing a base area. Kilo engaged the enemy with small arms and 60mm mortar fire. Artillery missions and air strikes were conducted in support of Kilo's assault into the enemy positions. A reaction force consisting of 1 platoon of 1 Co with tanks was dispatched from C-2 to YD 1363. The battle raged throughout the day and resulted in 19 NVA/KIA (C) while Kilo sustained 14 WIA(E).

On 13 August C/1/3 XD 987613 was notified by B Company that an enemy force of 37 NVA was moving toward one of Company C's night ambushes. The ambush was triggered moments later with small arms and claymore mines. Spooky reported on station and provided suppressive fire for the duration of the contact. The action resulted in 10 NVA/KIA and only 1 USMC WIA(M).

During the latter part of August, constant patrolling plus search and destroy operations exerted continuous pressure on enemy units as elements of the 1st and 3d Battalions, 3d Marines swept to the northwest.

On 22 August a platoon patrol of Lima Company XD 932620 initiated contact with an unknown size enemy force. An AC and gunships were called on station and coordinated friendly artillery. The battered enemy withdrew leaving 7 dead behind. Lima suffered 2 KIA and 8 WIA(E). Total casualties for the month were:

OPERATION ARLINGTON CANYON

Operation Arlington Canyon began on 3 July and continued throughout August, was manned by elements of the 2d Bn, 4th Marines. The operation was originally conceived to inhibit the enemy's numerous rocket attacks on fire support bases within the AO. This mission remained constant and was enhanced by the reoccurring need to locate and destroy enemy units that were known to be operating in the immediate area.

Companies E, F, G, H were employed as security for FSB Russell and conducted offensive operations to the east and west of the artillery position. The companies interchanged missions frequently with one company usually rehabilitating at Cua Viet or Vandegrift. One of these, the 1st platoon of H/2/4, on 20 August encountered an estimated force of 12-15 NVA, vicinity XD 920626, deployed in an L-shaped ambush. The platoon returned fire with small arms and called upon artillery and 81's for additional support. The 3d platoon maneuvered toward the 1st to render assistance. The NVA withdrew and commenced a mortar attack which was quickly silenced by the AO who directed suppressive artillery fire. The action resulted in 3 FR KIA, 8 WIA(E) and 3 NVA(C). The total casualties for the month of August were:

OPERATION GEORGIA TAR

Operation Georgia Tar was initiated on 16 July by the 1st and 3d Bn's of the 4th Marines. The operation was prompted by the numerous rocket attacks on Vandegrift and Elliott Combat Bases. Elements of both units were assigned the mission of locating the suspected rocket launch sites and, additionally, to search and clear the remaining areas of the so-called "rocket belt".

The 1st Bn, 4th Marines provided security at VCB, Signal Hill and maintained the Sparrow Hawk/Bald Eagle for most of August. They supplemented this task with continuous patrols and varying sized ambushes along both sides of Route #9. The 3d Bn, 4th Marines provided security for and operated from FSB Russell and Hill 950. Companies interchanged and displaced frequently while sweeping the area in the vicinity of FSB Russell. Ambushes, patrols, and numerous hunter-killer teams were deployed extensively by all units.

On 27 August the two battalions adopted each others primary mission and completed the necessary troop movements. Contacts for the month were sporadic with the encounters limited to small enemy units.

The number of rocket attacks and mining incidents was significantly reduced, indicating that the high level of friendly activity severely restricted all NVA operations throughout the AO. Total casualties for the month were:

OPERATION IROQUOIS GROVE

The 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mech) continued to operate in the eastern zone of the 3d Marine Division AO. Operation Iroquois Grove, which commenced on 19 June, remained as the 1st of the 5th's responsibility. Subordinate units conducted numerous ambushes, sweeps, and anti-infiltration patrols as a primary means of NVA and VC denial. On 13 August, elements of the Brigade moved to what was formerly the eastern edge of Idaho Canyon AO and assumed operational control of the region surrounding A-4 and C-2.

The 1st Bn, 77th Armor operated from FSB's Sharon and Nancy. Companies emphasized mounted sweeps and conducted numerous ambush patrols. The 1st Bn, 11th Infantry (Mech) operated from FSB Sharon during early August and later C and D Companies moved to and operated from A-4. Indigenous units swept the area immediately surrounding Sharon and A-4 in an attempt to locate enemy forces and possible staging areas.

The 1st Bn, 61st Infantry (Mech) also displaced midway during the month of August and moved A, B, and C Companies to C-2. The Battalion employed numerous ambushes and patrols while clearing its assigned AO northeast of C-2.

Contacts in August were intermittent and usually involved engagements with small enemy units.

Also, during the month units of the 3d and 4th Marines rotated to Cua Viet for rehabilitation purposes. One company utilized the beach area and, after a designated R&R period, returned to the field.

he is continuing to ensure his instructions are carried out. The long drought in funds for the Village Self-Development Councils ended. By the end of the period, some 70% of Quang Tri's VSDP funds were committed. Additional village officials were sent to Vung Tau. On balance, the VSDP continues to maintain momentum. Refugee resettlement in their former homesites has continued with some 5,429 returned in Hai Lang during the period. Despite some 8 enemy initiated activities in Hai Lang and a weak District Chief, the APC '69 program moves along, albeit slowly. The provincial economy has been aided by 3d Marine Division and 1/5 Inf Div (Mech) units initiating the plowing of some 1500 hectares of long fallow rice land in Trieu Phong and Hai Lang Districts. Six of seven districts have had Senior Adviser changeovers during the last two months, bringing with it the problems one grows to expect.

All MAT Teams, except I-3 which is short one officer, are up to strength.

c. Future Problems and Projections: The refugee problem continues to be present in Quang Tri. We started the year with 103,000 refugees on the rolls. Through various methods this number has been reduced to some 52,000. By November it appears we will have "normalized" the remaining 52,000 refugees. The normalized refugees will include some 30,000 people in Cam Le and Gio Linh Districts who are not economically self-sufficient, who are not living in their original homes, who were forced to move because of the war, and who are living in sub-standard housing. They will no longer be called refugees, but will continue to be a problem.
